

PROTECT CHILDREN ONLINE

Children deserve to be safe when it comes to social media. Every day, many children experience some form of cyberbullying, that can lead to severe consequences including self-harm and suicide.

We're asking social media companies to step up and do their part to protect children online.

Put adverts on social media to help prevent bullying

Automatically put accounts on private

Make 'Report' and 'Block' options more visible

Keywords used in bullying should be identified

Links to support groups should be available at all times

Make public service announcements to make people aware of the options they have

Online campaigns

Highlight discriminatory content

Ask a User's permission to join a group instead of automatically pulling them in

Send texts to let the user know an individual has been banned from seeing their page if successfully reported
